Patients underreport symptoms.

Patients underreport their symptoms at a rate of more than 55%, and only 23% of patients feel they have time to finish their “opening statement of concerns” during a doctor’s visit.

INSIGHT allows the patient to fill out the necessary clinical evaluation surveys in their own time and place, helping them to better prepare for visits and more effectively communicate concerns and questions.

Providers don’t have time to listen to the whole story.

On average, patients speak for 12 seconds before being interrupted by their doctor.

INSIGHT tracks symptoms, providing patients with a comprehensive platform to voice concerns and helping healthcare providers make more accurate diagnoses and appropriate treatment options.

Changes in patient status go undetected.

Point-in-time assessments do not show the longitudinal progression nor potentially meaningful deviation from the normative status.

INSIGHT detects and alerts to changes in symptoms over time, ultimately identifying risks for developing complications.
